

Fluctuating oil prices such as the industry has seen in recent months often mean that new wells must produce quickly and perform well over time to ensure good return. Fracturing operations need to be performed efficiently and effectively to be certain the well can produce at its best.

Read full article

Adobe Acrobat Document