

Although they were once relegated to frac flowback operations, jet pumps are now showing potential as an artificial lift method to maximize production potential. One Denver-based operator has recorded a first-year incremental cash flow improvement of approximately $850,000 per well by using jet pumps instead of rod pumps.

Read full article

